

Abstract

A system and method to control engine valves of 5 an internal combustion engine is shown.
Electromechanical valves are controlled in a manner to reduce hydrocarbon emissions of an internal combustion engine. Further, the method can adjust valve operation to account for vehicle exhaust system design.